6. Do you think that those brethren can be actuated by a good spirit, who are always urging a separation among the Baptists—always urging a non-fellowship?

7. For the Lord's sake, and for the peace of the churches, ought we not all to be willing to live and let live?

B. Yes, we ought, my dear brother; here we agree exactly.

A. And I hope we shall always agree in this particular; for it has always been a great grief to me to hear any one urging a non-fellowship, and a separation on account of things which ought not to disturb our fellowship. If I think it is my duty to give, let me enjoy the liberty of my conscience; and if you do not think it your duty to give, I am willing to let you enjoy the liberty of your conscience.

B. I hope so too. Farewell—may the Lord bless you.

A. Farewell, my brother—the Lord bless you too, and teach us all our duty, is my prayer.

B. Amen.

A. Amen.
